TRAINING AND EXPERIENCE

I am a Special Agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). As such, I am a "federal law enforcement officer" within the meaning of Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 41(a)(2)(C), that is, a government agent engaged in enforcing the federal criminal laws. I have been a Special Agent with the FBI for approximately four years.

I am currently assigned to the Seattle Field Office and assigned to investigate domestic terrorism matters. During my service with the FBI, I have investigated and participated in the investigations of criminal activity, including but not limited to, crimes against persons, crimes against property, and conspiracy against civil rights. During these investigations, I have participated in the execution of search warrants and the seizure of evidence indicating the presence of criminal violations. As an FBI Special Agent, I have also conducted or participated in physical surveillance, debriefings of informants, and reviews of records and recordings. From these experiences, and from related training, I have become familiar with the ways in which persons coordinate, carry out, and conceal criminal activity. Additionally, I have completed training in investigating the use of computer systems and email in the commission of criminal activity.

This affidavit is made based upon my personal knowledge, training, experience, and investigation, as well as upon information provided to me and my review of reports prepared by other law enforcement personnel. This affidavit is made for the purpose of establishing probable cause for this Complaint and thus does not include every fact known to me concerning this investigation.

PROBABLE CAUSE

A. Summary of Investigation.

In early September 2020, Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 developed a plan to attack the Seattle Police Officers Guild building with Molotov cocktails. They planned the attack to take place on Labor Day 2020 (September 7, 2020) to coincide with a scheduled demonstration at the SPOG. Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 attempted to find others to join their plan, ultimately connecting with Conspirator 3 and Justin Christopher Moore. On September 7, 2020, Conspirator 1, Conspirator 2, Conspirator 3, and Moore attended the demonstration and marched to the SPOG building as part of a large crowd. Moore was carrying a Corona box containing 12 Molotov cocktail devices, made of glass beer bottles filled with gasoline with bandanas installed as wicks. Moore abandoned the box in the vicinity of the SPOG after Seattle Police Department (SPD) officers moved in to disperse the crowd. An SPD officer recovered the box of Molotov cocktails shortly thereafter. This Complaint charges Moore with the unlawful possession of the Molotov cocktails and outlines the related plan to attack the SPOG building.

B. The Arrest of Conspirator 1 and Recovery of his iPhones.

On September 26, 2020, SPD officers arrested Conspirator 1 after he set a dumpster on fire during a protest outside of the SPD East Precinct. Conspirator 1 and others in the crowd were wearing all black clothing ("black bloc") and had various items such as helmets, respirators, gloves, and shields. Conspirator 1 and others moved trash cans and dumpsters into the roadway, creating a barricade between themselves and responding SPD officers. Conspirator 1 then set the contents of a dumpster on fire and was arrested shortly thereafter. Conspirator 1 had an iPhone on his person at the time of his arrest.

Three days earlier, during another protest on September 23, 2020, SPD officers recovered an iPhone at the scene of an assault. During the assault, an unidentified assailant (later determined to be Conspirator 1) attacked an SPD officer with a baseball bat. The assailant dropped the recovered iPhone at the scene of the assault prior to fleeing the area. SPD officers executed search warrants on the phone recovered from the assault scene and the phone recovered from Conspirator 1 and determined that both were assigned the same telephone number and were linked to an email account used by Conspirator 1.<sup>1</sup> C. Conspirator 1's Communications Over Signal. The search of Conspirator 1's smartphones resulted in the recovery of Conspirator 1's communications over the messaging application Signal.<sup>2</sup> Conspirator 1 used Signal to communicate with Conspirator 2<sup>3</sup> and others about criminal activities. For example, on the afternoon of September 1, 2020, Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 discussed their plan to attack the SPD East Precinct later that night with Molotov cocktails: Conspirator 1: "Yea I'm headed down there now" Conspirator 1: "Where are we gonna meet" Conspirator 2: "At cal [Cal Anderson Park] I can meet you" Conspirator 2: "What's needed for the cocktails" Conspirator 1: "Gas, mid-sized bottle, wicc, rag" Later that night, surveillance footage and other video documentation captured Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 (both dressed in "black bloc" attire) throwing Molotov cocktails at the SPD East Precinct. The device Conspirator 1 threw went over a fence and struck the East Precinct building, resulting in the spread of flames. The device Conspirator 2 threw appears not to have cleared the fence. <sup>1</sup> The King County Prosecuting Attorney's Office subsequently filed an Information charging Conspirator 1 with charges against Conspirator 1 remain pending.

To use Signal, a user installs the Signal application to their mobile device and establishes a user profile with the phone number assigned to the mobile device and a user-provided name.

The following day, Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 discussed the events over Signal:

Conspirator 2: "I know I was an idiot who threw it at and not over lmao"

Conspirator 1: "Lol I mean yea but you know for next time lol. I think we were both nervous as fuck and so year but next time you'll get it"

D. The Seattle Police Officers Guild.

The Seattle Police Officers Guild (SPOG) is the largest police labor union in the Pacific Northwest. According to its website, the SPOG represents over 1,300 members including all the officers and sergeants serving on the SPD. The SPOG headquarters is in the building at 2949 Fourth Avenue South, in Seattle. During the Summer of 2020, the SPD and the SPOG were focal points of regular demonstrations and, on multiple occasions, were targeted in acts of violence and property destruction.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> The SPOG is involved in interstate and foreign commerce and in activities affecting interstate and foreign commerce. For example: (a) the SPOG is a member of the United Coalition of Public Safety ("UCOPS"), a national organization comprised of approximately 20 police unions from at least seven states across the United States representing more than 38,000 law enforcement officers, with the President of the SPOG concurrently serving as the Treasurer of UCOPS; (b) the SPOG provides space within its building to Crime Stoppers, a national organization that spans the United States to create a network of local programs that work together to prevent and solve crimes in communities and schools across the nation; (c) the SPOG also provides space within its building to Code 4 Northwest, a crisis response and referral network for Washington State active and retired first responders, EMS, corrections, civilian support personnel, and their families; (d) the SPOG accepts and processes payments and donations from individuals located outside of the State of Washington by providing a link on its website to the national www.stopdefunding.com campaign; and (e) the SPOG provides benefits to its members including insurance coverage from insurance companies located in Oregon and California.

The Seattle Police Department itself also is involved in interstate and foreign commerce and in activities affecting interstate and foreign commerce. See United States v. Odom, 252 F.3d 1289, 1294 (11th Cir. 2001) ("The legislative history of § 844(i) reveals that the statute was crafted specifically to include some non-business property such as police stations and churches.") (citing Russell v. United States, 471 U.S. 858, 860 (1985)); United States v. Laton, 352 F.3d 286, 300 (6th Cir. 2003) ("When it crafted § 844(i) to encompass the arson of police stations, Congress recognized that the provision of emergency services by municipalities can affect interstate commerce in the active sense of the phrase.") (citing Jones v. United States, 529 U.S. 848, 853 n.5 (2000); Russell, 471 U.S. at 860–61); Belflower v. United States, 129 F.3d 1459, 1462 (11th Cir.1997) (holding that § 844(i) covered the bombing of a police vehicle which a local sheriff's deputy used in his law enforcement responsibilities and that destruction of a police car had "a significant impact on interstate commerce" because the deputy patrolled traffic and made arrests on an interstate highway, issued citations to out-of-state drivers, participated in interstate narcotic investigations, assisted out-of-state authorities in apprehending suspects, recovered stolen property from other states, and attended law enforcement training sessions in other states).

1 E. The Conspiracy to Commit an Arson Attack at the SPOG on Labor Day. 2 Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 used Signal to formulate a plan to conduct an 3 arson attack at the SPOG using Molotov cocktails. They planned the attack to take place 4 on Labor Day 2020 (September 7, 2020) to coincide with a scheduled demonstration at 5 the SPOG. 6 On September 1, 2020, Conspirator 2 told Conspirator 1 that they should get "10-7 15 of them ready," referring to manufacturing Molotov cocktails. Conspirator 1 agreed 8 and suggested that they needed to recruit more people to assist. 9 On September 2, 2020, Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 continued to discuss the 10 plan over Signal: 11 Conspirator 1: "How many Molotovs are you thinking we should have by Labor 12 Day. Cuz we shouldn't over use our resources ya dig?" 13 Conspirator 2: "Well we should count on a couple failing but as long as we plan it 14 right it can be cost effective." 15 Conspirator 2: "I think 10" Conspirator 1: "Definitely agree with that. Im really hoping we can get fireworks 16 17 cuz they're preeeeeety. Yea ten sounds good. We'll need help storing them." Conspirator 2: "Yeah we will well I have someone else who wants to help" 18 19 Conspirator 2: "As well. Still vetting them out" 20 **** 21 Conspirator 1: "So I have a question: are we trying to take down the building or 22 just send a message by throwing them at the outside of the building?" 23 Conspirator 2: "By take down what do you mean?" 24 Conspirator 2: "Like completely demolish it?" 25 Conspirator 1: "Like literally have the building fall" 26 Conspirator 1: "To the ground" 27 Conspirator 2: "I don't think we could without [dynamite emoji]" 28 Conspirator 2: "That takes a lot of power"

1	Conspirator 1: "Well I have an idea"
2	Conspirator 1: "Are you open to it"
3	Conspirator 2: "What's your idea"
4	Conspirator 1: "So my idea is that some ppl throw rocks at the windows, break
5	them, then Molotov throwers throw them into the windows. That's literally how
6	ppl/me took down the youth detention center on J25" 5
7	Conspirator 2: "Okay sure but we need more people"
8	On September 3, 2020, Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 continued to discuss plans
9	for the Labor Day arson attack at the SPOG and their need to recruit other individuals to
10	assist:
11	Conspirator 2: "Who did you do that [J25] with?"
12	Conspirator 2: "We need those people to help us"
13	Conspirator 1: "I actually don't know who they wereI wish I could connect with
14	them and see if they could help us"
15	Conspirator 2: " Well I think I know two people who are a part of it that you may
16	know"
17	****
18	Conspirator 1: "Maybe ask them if they would be interested in helping with direct
19	action and not say anything else and then if they were cool with that then see what
20	their comfort level is and then based on that see if they would be useful for our
21	agenda. Does that make sense?
22	Conspirator 2: "Yeah they probably know you better than me"
23	Conspirator 2: "You always wear all black haha and have been to the endd more"
24	Conspirator 1: "I honestly don't know a lot of ppl but I'm willing to talk to them if
25	you send them my way"

22	E. SPD Officers Recover 12 Molotov Cocktails Near the SPOG on Labor Day.
23	On September 7, 2020, a crowd of approximately 1,000+ individuals participated
24	in a demonstration at the SPOG. The demonstration was broadcast live online via several
25	individuals who regularly streamed protest activities, including streamers using the
26	monikers RebellionBaby and Malcontentment Tango. The events also were observed by
27	numerous responding SPD officers and undercover law enforcement personnel who were
28	part of the crowd.

The crowd marched south on Fourth Avenue and eventually stopped in front of the SPOG building. Due to a variety of factors, including that there were reports of gasoline smells in the immediate area, SPD officers moved in to disperse the crowd. Numerous members of the crowd then marched north and east and ended up in Judkins Park.

At approximately 6:30 p.m., shortly after the crowd dispersed from the SPOG, an SPD officer located a 12-pack Corona box on the ground in the parking lot of the Orient Express, a property immediately adjacent to the SPOG. The Corona box contained 12 Molotov cocktail devices, made of glass beer bottles filled with gasoline with bandanas installed as wicks.

Investigators subsequently reviewed surveillance and live-stream video footage and determined that a particular individual, depicted below in Figure 1 and Figure 2, was carrying the Corona box in the vicinity of the SPOG building. As set forth below, this individual was subsequently identified as defendant Justin Christopher Moore.

A review of surveillance and live-stream video footage confirms that Conspirator 1, Conspirator 2, and Conspirator 3 were present at the SPOG protest on Labor Day 2020, as they had planned over Signal. The footage also shows that Moore was at the SPOG protest, often seen interacting with Conspirator 3. A summary of the footage is set forth below.

As the crowd moved south on Fourth Avenue towards the SPOG, Conspirator 1, Conspirator 2, and Conspirator 3 can be seen walking together and communicating with each other near the front of the crowd.<sup>7</sup> At this time, Moore was walking toward the back of the crowd carrying the Corona box full of Molotov cocktails. They all arrived at the SPOG building along with the larger crowd.

After the crowd was dispersed from the SPOG, Conspirator 2 appears to have been separated from the rest of the group. Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 3 can be seen walking together on the sidewalk. Shortly thereafter, Conspirator 3 and Moore met up and walked together to Judkins Park. At this point, Moore was no longer carrying the Corona box. Moore was wearing a dark blue hooded zip-up jacket with white drawstrings; a black colored button-down shirt with two breast pockets; tan leather work gloves; black pants; a blue surgical mask; and distinctive black running shoes with dark soles and black elastic laces. At one point, a red t-shirt is visible sticking out from underneath Moore's blue jacket and black shirt.

When they arrived at Judkins Park, video footage shows Moore taking off his outer clothing. Moore was left wearing a red t-shirt with white lettering across the chest and khaki shorts. At one point, Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 3 can be seen standing together on the edge of Judkins Park. Later, Conspirator 3 and Moore can be seen leaving the area together at approximately 7:44 p.m.

G. Identification of Moore as the Person Who Possessed the Molotov Cocktails.

1. Information Provided by Witness 1.

On May 28, 2021, Renton Police Department officers responded to a house in Renton to investigate a domestic dispute between Justin Moore and his roommate, Witness 1. The incident began as a verbal dispute and ultimately resulted in a physical confrontation between Moore and Witness 1. Witness 1 told officers that Moore was a dangerous person. As an example, he stated that Moore was the person who brought a Corona box of Molotov cocktails to the SPOG demonstration on Labor Day 2020.

The Renton Police Department officers provided this information to the FBI. FBI agents subsequently interviewed Witness 1 on multiple occasions. Witness 1 explained that he met Moore during the summer of 2020 because they were both involved in the "Seattle protest scene." Witness 1 stated that Moore used the moniker "Potato" with others in the protest scene. In December 2020, Witness 1 and Moore moved into the Renton house as roommates. Witness 1 described Moore as an "extremist" who was "crazy" and "dangerous." According to Witness 1, Moore regularly handed out gear to protestors – such as gas masks and helmets – with the intent to enable protesters to be more confrontational with law enforcement.

Witness 1 described his knowledge and involvement in the events of Labor Day 2020. Witness 1 attended the SPOG protest along with Conspirator 4. According to Witness 1, as the march was moving toward the SPOG building, Moore approached Witness 1 and Conspirator 4. Moore was carrying a box of Corona bottles that smelled strongly of gasoline. Moore was bragging and Witness 1 told Moore that he was crazy for bringing that to the protest. After the demonstration, Moore told Witness 1 that he 27 28 was disappointed because he had to "ditch the box" after the police dispersed the crowd and "didn't get to throw any," referring to the Molotov cocktails.

Witness 1 stated that Moore was wearing a blue hoodie and tan gloves at the protest. Witness 1 also stated that Moore changed out of these clothes after the protest. Agents showed Witness 1 Figure 3 and Figure 4 below. Witness 1 confirmed that Moore is the individual wearing the dark blue jacket in Figure 3 and the red t-shirt in the bottom right corner of Figure 4. Witness 1 stated that he had no doubt the suspect was Moore, explaining, "Of course I can ID the guy that I've been living with for over six months."

Witness 1 further stated that Moore spent time with other persons involved in the protest scene, including Conspirator 4 and a person known to Witness 1 as "Ash" (who is known to investigators as Conspirator 3). Witness 1 was shown various photographs from the Labor Day protest and identified "Ash" as being in several of the photos.

Witness 1 further reported that he was present for a meeting between Conspirator 4, "the kid who hit the officer with a bat" (Conspirator 1), and "a short, Spanish female with tattoos" (Conspirator 2) at Seattle Central College prior to Labor Day 2020. According to Witness 1, at the meeting, Conspirator 4 asked Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 2 if they had someone who would get Molotov cocktails for the Labor Day event, and Conspirator 1 confirmed they would have them.

Conspirator 1 asked Conspirator 4 if he could acquire any fireworks. Witness 1 stated that Conspirator 4 had later told him that Moore and Conspirator 1 met together prior to Labor Day. Witness 1 understood that this meeting took place at the Seattle arboretum.

2. Search Warrant Executed at Moore's Residence and Vehicle.

On June 28-29, 2021, SPD officers executed search warrants on Moore's residence in Renton (the one he shared with Witness 1) and a Hyundai Elantra vehicle Moore was known to drive. According to the landlord of the property, Moore was the sole tenant on the lease, and he subleased part of the house to Witness 1 and another individual. The Hyundai Elantra was owned by CarMax; records reflect that Moore was using the vehicle as a "loaner" while CarMax was repairing Moore's vehicle.

In the vehicle, officers recovered a smartphone; paperwork in Moore's name; and black pants consistent with the pants that the Molotov cocktail suspect wore on Labor Day 2020. Officers also recovered from the vehicle a spiral notebook containing numerous pages of writings. Some pages of the notebook contained a list of ingredients that, based on my training and experience, appear to be related to the manufacture of explosives, including, "ping pong balls, matchbooks, Rocket candy, black powder, scale, potassium nitrate, magnesium, masking tape." The notebook also contained what appear to be recipes for manufacturing explosives, including: "Smoke mix, 60/40, 60 rocket candy, 40 black powder, flash mix 70/30, potassium nitrate, magnesium."10

<sup>23</sup> 24

&lt;sup>9</sup> The notebook contains multiple references to information consistent with Moore being the author of the writings. For example, there are entries about contacts Moore is known to have had with the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs and the Renton Housing Authority, and information about a bank account that Moore is known to use.

the term "rocket candy" refers to a low explosive compound comprised of potassium nitrate and sugar, frequently used in hobby rocket engines. The term "black powder" refers to a low explosive compound that can be commercially manufactured or improvised. Commercial black powder is typically comprised of 75% potassium nitrate, 15% charcoal, and 10% Sulfur. The term "Smoke Mix" is not a term in common usage, although open sources recommend making a smoke-producing mixture with 60% potassium nitrate and 40% sugar. "Flash mix" is similarly not a term in common usage though it may refer to flash powder. Flash powder is an explosive material United States v. Justin Christopher Moore

The notebook contained numerous pages of additional writings, including:

If anyone should read these words ... please know that I am not 50/150. I have a sane and sound mind. I just intend to die. Some are borne to be parents ... I am not. Some are borne to be leaders ... intended to produce an audible report and flash of light when ignited. The pyrotechnic industry standard recipe for flash powder is 70% potassium perchlorate and 30% aluminum powder by weight.

In Moore's bedroom within the residence, officers recovered Moore's driver's license; paperwork in Moore's name; a hardware receipt in the name of Conspirator 3; and a distinctive black button-down dress shirt and red t-shirt with white screen printing, both of which are consistent with the suspect's attire on Labor Day 2020. (See the below comparison photographic exhibit). Near the front door of the residence, officers also recovered black athletic shoes with elastic laces, again consistent with the Labor Day suspect's attire.<sup>11</sup> <sup>12</sup>

Arson in the First Degree in King County Superior Court and/or as to potential federal charges. United States v. Justin Christopher Moore Complaint - 20 USAO No. 2020R00533

In a basement storage area of Moore's residence, officers recovered several items and materials that can be used in the manufacture of explosives, including consumer fireworks, Meal Ready to Eat (MRE) flameless ration heaters (FRH), a 50-pack of Diamond Deluxe matchbooks, a four-pound bag of bulk potassium nitrate, and Goex FFFFg black powder.<sup>13</sup> Officers also recovered a large assortment of gas masks, wristrockets, potato cannons, bolt cutters, paint, water guns, and climbing harnesses.

3. Information Provided by Conspirator 2.

During the Fall of 2021, investigators interviewed Conspirator 2 on three occasions. 14 Conspirator 2 confirmed that she and Conspirator 1 came up with a plan to target the SPOG with Molotov cocktails on Labor Day 2020; they were attempting to find others to join them; they met together and with Conspirator 3 and Conspirator 4 as discussed over their Signal communications; and they attended the protest together.

Regarding the events of Labor Day, Conspirator 2 stated that she met up with Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 3 at Cal Anderson Park prior to the protest. At the beginning of the march – as the crowd headed toward the SPOG building – Conspirator 2 was walking with Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 3. Along the way, Conspirator 3 pointed out Moore in the crowd. Conspirator 3 told Conspirator 2 that "Potato" had arrived and was there "to help." Conspirator 2 observed that Moore was carrying a large item in his hands in front of his body.

Conspirator 2 stated that she got separated from Conspirator 1 and Conspirator 3 after the police dispersed the crowd in front of the SPOG. Conspirator 1 and

<sup>14</sup> Conspirator 2 provided information in hopes of obtaining consideration as to a pending charge of Attempted

&lt;sup>13</sup> Based on my training and experience, and that of other FBI agents with whom I have consulted, I understand that each MRE FRH contains approximately eight grams or less of powdered magnesium. Magnesium is a fuel commonly used in the production of fuel/oxidizer explosive mixtures. Match heads contain potassium chlorate and are often used as a source of potassium chlorate in the production of improvised explosives. Potassium chlorate and potassium nitrate are oxidizers commonly used in the production of fuel/oxidizer explosive mixtures. Goex black powder is a commercially produced low explosive. FFFFg black powder is the finest grain black powder commercially produced, allowing it to burn at faster rates than larger grain black powder.

Conspirator 2 were trying to find each other, and Conspirator 3 was attempting to locate Moore. Ultimately, they all ended up at Judkins Park.

Later that evening, Conspirator 1, Conspirator 2, Conspirator 3, and Moore were together at Cal Anderson Park. Moore viewed an SPD Twitter post with a photo of the recovered Corona box of Molotov cocktails. Moore acknowledged carrying the Molotov cocktails and commented that no one would ever figure it out and he would get away with it. Moore also commented that a lot of people were wearing black bloc, but he was "dressed like everybody else."

Conspirator 2 explained that she met Moore during the summer of 2020 through their mutual participation in various protest events. Conspirator 2 knew Moore by the name "Potato." According to Conspirator 2, Moore told her that he was a Marine Corps veteran. Conspirator 2 was also aware that Moore was friends with Witness 1. Conspirator 2 viewed a photo montage and identified Moore's photo as "Potato." In addition, Conspirator 2 viewed several of the above photographs and video stills taken of the Molotov cocktail suspect from Labor Day 2020 and identified each of the images as "Potato"/Moore. Conspirator 2 also viewed several other video stills and photos taken from Labor Day 2020 and identified herself, Conspirator 1, and Conspirator 3 in various images. Conspirator 2 further identified Conspirators 1, 3, and 4 in photo montages.

4. Voice Identification of Moore at the Labor Day March.

Investigating agents have obtained two videos taken on Labor Day 2020 that capture the suspect who was carrying the Corona box walking down the street and speaking. The footage was taken after the crowd was dispersed and the suspect had abandoned the box of Molotov cocktails. The footage contains audio and the suspect's voice can be clearly heard. One of the videos was obtained via a live stream and the other was captured by the body-worn camera of an SPD officer who was in the crowd.

USAO No. 2020R00533

UNITED STATES ATTORNEY
700 STEWART STREET, SUITE 5220
SEATTLE, WASHINGTON 98101

A Renton Police Department officer who investigated the domestic dispute between Witness 1 and Moore reviewed the live stream video. The officer had recently interviewed Moore as part of that investigation. The officer confirmed that the voice of the suspect matched Moore's voice. Witness 1 also reviewed the video and identified the speaker's voice as Moore's.

H. The Destructive Devices.

FBI agents have conferred with an ATF Senior Explosives Enforcement Officer (EEO). An EEO has the responsibility within the ATF for making Device Determinations under the National Firearms Act, as required by 27 C.F.R. § 478.27. The EEO conducted an initial review of photographs and reports documenting the recovered devices. According to the EEO, the twelve glass containers filled with gasoline and fitted with wicks, commonly known as "Molotov cocktails," were designed as weapons and are each properly classified as an "incendiary bomb." <sup>16</sup> Incendiary bombs are "destructive devices" as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. § 5845(f) and are therefore regulated in accordance with the Federal Firearms Regulations. Additionally, the EEO advised that incendiary bombs fall within the definition of "incendiary device" found in &lt;sup>16</sup> The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals recently reaffirmed the well-settled proposition that a Molotov cocktail device constitutes a "destructive device" under federal law. United States v. Barker, 689 Fed. Appx. 555 (9th Cir. 2017) ("We hold that a Molotov cocktail fits within the firearm category of 'a destructive device.' A Molotov cocktail is an incendiary device that is quite similar to a grenade. Therefore, possession constitutes a crime of violence."). Federal "courts have uniformly held that a fully-assembled Molotov cocktail device - defined as a device comprising a bottle, gasoline, and a rag – constitutes an 'incendiary ... bomb' or 'similar device' under section 5845(f)." United States v. Simmons, 83 F.3d 686, 687–88 (4th Cir. 1996) (citing United States v. Peterson, 475 F.2d 806, 811 (9th Cir. 1973) (device comparable to a Molotov cocktail was a "destructive device"); United States v. Neal, 692 F.2d 1296, 1303-04 (10th Cir.1982) (affirming conviction for possession of a destructive device made from "a one gallon plastic jug, a flammable liquid, and a rag wick"); United States v. Campbell, 685 F.2d 131, 132 (5th Cir.1982) (sustaining indictment for possession of a destructive device "made from cloth rags, [and] flammable liquid with a fuse made of incense sticks"); United States v. Ross, 458 F.2d 1144, 1144-46, 1144 n. 1 (5th Cir. 1972) (affirming conviction for possession of "crude incendiary devices" consisting of "a quart glass bottle with cloth therein and containing a flammable liquid and having a cloth wick in the mouth of said bottle); United States v. Curtis, 520 F.2d 1300, 1304 (1st Cir.1975) ("[W]hile gasoline, bottles and rags all may be legally possessed, their combination into the type of home-made incendiary bomb commonly known as a Molotov cocktail creates a destructive device."); United States v. Wilson, 546 F.2d 1175, 1177 (5th Cir.) (same); United States v. Tankersley, 492 F.2d 962, 966 (7th Cir.1974) (affirming conviction for possession of a "destructive device" which consisted of "a bottle, a firecracker and tape, and paint remover: the components of a Molotov cocktail")).

18 U.S.C. § 232(5) and are therefore explosives as that term is defined in 18 U.S.C. 2 §844(i). The EEO further advised that he would need to conduct additional analysis 3 before making a finial Device Determination and submitting it for peer review and 4 approval by the Explosives Enforcement Branch. 5 ATF agents involved with this investigation have confirmed that Justin Christopher Moore had not registered any destructive devices as required under the 6 7 National Firearms Act. 8 CONCLUSION 9 Based on the foregoing, I respectfully submit that there is probable cause to believe that Justin Christopher Moore committed the offense set forth above in this 10 11 Complaint. 12 13 KATHERINE MURPHY 14 Special Agent, FBI 15 The above-named agent provided a sworn statement attesting to the truth of the 16 contents of the foregoing affidavit on the 23 day of November, 2021.
